
The Missouri Public Service Commission regulates investor-owned electric, natural gas, steam, water and sewer companies and has limited authority over telephone providers in the state. The Commission ensures the public has access to safe, reliable and reasonably priced utility service. The Commission must balance the interests of the public – ratepayers – as well as company shareholders. In proceedings before the Commission, rates are set to give the utility company an opportunity – but not a guarantee – to earn a reasonable return on its investment after recovering its prudently incurred expenses.

In addition, the Commission regulates the state’s rural electric cooperatives and municipally-owned natural gas utilities for operational safety. The Commission also oversees service territory issues involving investor-owned electric utilities, rural electric cooperatives and municipally-owned electric utilities as well as those involving privately-owned water utilities, public water supply districts and municipally-owned water districts. Utility services and infrastructure are essential to the economy of Missouri. Virtually every Missouri citizen receives some form of utility service (electric, natural gas, telecommunications, water or sewer) from a company regulated by the Missouri Public Service Commission.

When did Missouri-American Water Company file its request with the Public Service Commission?

On May 10, 2022, Missouri-American Water Company (MAWC) filed an application with the Missouri Public Service Commission seeking a Certificate of Convenience and Necessity to provide water and sewer service in and around the City of Stewartsville. According to the application, MAWC proposes to purchase all of the water and sewer utility assets of the currently unregulated City of Stewartsville system. On November 2, 2021, voters approved the sale of the City of Stewartsville system to MAWC.

According to the application, MAWC proposes to charge water customers the existing water rates currently applicable to MAWC’s St. Joseph service area and to charge sewer customers the sewer rates applicable to MAWC’s Trimble service area. These rates would be in effect until such time as they are modified according to law. On July 1, 2022, MAWC filed water and sewer rate cases with the Missouri Public Service Commission seeking to increase annual water and sewer revenues by approximately $99.6 million, which MAWC seeks to recover from its Missouri customers. Formal evidentiary hearings in those rate cases are scheduled to begin on February 27, 2023, in the Governor Office Building in Jefferson City.

Has the Commission decided this case?

No. The Commission will review all of the information filed in this case and then render a decision based on the evidence.

What is the format of this local public hearing?

There will be a question-and-answer session followed by the formal local public hearing.

1) Question-and-Answer Session: Those attending can ask questions of representatives from the company, the PSC Staff and the Office of the Public Counsel. Comments on the case should not be made during this part of the public hearing.

2) Formal Local Public Hearing: After the question-and-answer session, there will be a formal local public hearing where members of the public can make statements under oath. Those statements will be transcribed by a court reporter and will become part of the case record. Only the Commissioners or the Regulatory Law Judge may ask questions during the formal local public hearing.

The questions and answers made during the question-and-answer session WILL NOT be part of the case record or considered by the Commission when it decides whether to grant the request.
