On August 8, 2018, the Commission issued its order cancelling Quasar Communications Corporation's certificate of service authority to provide "interchange" (sic) telecommunication service. The term "interchange" was a scrivener's error. The correct term is "interexchange".

Accordingly, the Commission issues its Order Nunc Pro Tunc correcting all references made in its Order of August 8, 2018, to "interchange", so that the term "interexchange" is substituted for the term "interchange".
